Walkathon Winners Hunt For Promoter And Prizes

CLAIM $1000 NOT PAID AT END OF MEET

Contestants Seek Criminal Complaints But No Grounds, Attorney Says
HOLD BENEFIT DANCE

Four Couples Appear Last Night to Claim Money; Rapp is Not Present

THE RECENT walkathon on 101 highway at West Orange had passed into history today, with winning contestants hunting for the promoter, Robert J. Rapp, who failed, they contended, to make a promised appearance at a benefit dance last night for payment of $1000 in prize money.

Deputy District Attorney W. F. Menton, who said he was consulted by the disappointed contestants, told them that there was no ground for criminal action in Rapp's failure to pay the prize money, and declined to issue a criminal complaint.

Any claim they might have against the promoter, he said, must be pressed in the form of a civil court action.

The walkathon, which had been in progress 41 days, drawing large crowds nightly, was discontinued Thursday night, to comply with a county ordinance prohibiting such exhibitions. The ordinance, passed by the supervisors a month ago, went into force yesterday.

Four couples remained in the contest when it ended, and were said to have been promised a share in the prize money, which was scheduled to be presented last night at a benefit dance, arranged at the walkathon site to provide funds for getting the contestants to their respective homes.

The dance was held, but Rapp, who had not been seen since the preceding day, the contestants said, failed to appear. They told Menton they have been unable to locate him.

The dance also proved a disappointment to the contestants, a sum of about $80 being realized. This was divided among the contestants.

Officials today commented that the walkathon fiasco probably would have spelled the death knell for such affairs in this section, ordinance or not.

DEATH WEAPON IN SEIVER CASE FOUND

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 20.—The weapon that supposedly riddled the body of Dr. Leonard Seiver, Pasadena, Cal. dentist, two years ago, was identified tentatively today in possession of a Mexican policeman.

The gun, vital clue in a mystery that has baffled police since the wealthy socialite dentist was found shot to death on the morning of December 13, 1933, was brought here by Harry Karsch, amateur investigator.

Karsch said the gun was hidden near Tia Juana, Mexico, after it had been found supposedly in the office of an unnamed Southern California business man. The policeman did not explain where he obtained the weapon.

BRUNO'S APPEAL IS FILED BY ATTORNEYS

TRENTON, N. J., April 20.—(UP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's daily presence, the hysterical mob, and the "picture of a circus maximus" viewed by the jury in Bruno Richard Hauptmann's murder trial violated the defendant's constitutional rights, his attorneys charged today in citations of error filed in the court of errors and appeals.

The citations, signed by C. Lloyd Fisher, Judge Frederick A. Popa and Egbert Rosencrans of the defense, were presented to the court clerk by Rosencrans, who promised the case "will go to the Supreme court of the United States if the appeal for reversal is denied."

Most of the 143 citations deal with legal technicalities of the seven week trial.

SEVEN LITTLE CHILDREN LOSE LIVES IN FIRE

Bodies Found Huddled Together in Ruins of New Home in Quebec

ST. EMILE, Quebec, April 20.—(UP)—Seven children, ranging from 3 to 13 years in age, were burned to death today as they clung together in the flaming ruins of their new home.

The children, four boys and three girls, were left alone in the house by their father, Francis X. Renaud, when he went 10 miles to Quebec City to work. They had moved into the house last night.

André was the oldest of the children, and he took charge in the absence of his father.

Antoine and Gisèle, the youngest, were hungry and crying for their breakfast.

André set to work. He stuffed paper and kindling into the stove.

Apparently the fire was slow in starting. Neighbors later said they believed André poured kerosene on the fire to make it burn.

In any event, there was an explosion, and within a few minutes the frame house was in flames.

Apparently the children were too frightened to run from the house, or the older ones attempted to fight the flames until it was too late. All were trapped inside.

Neighbors found the bodies close together, some with arms around each other.

The children's mother had been in a hospital for several weeks. She was not told of the tragedy.

MOONEY RELEASE IS DENIED BY JURIST

SAN FRANCISCO, April 20.—(UP)—Attorneys supporting Tom Mooney's fight for freedom said today they had expected Superior Judge Edward Butler's refusal in Marin county court to grant the San Quentin prisoner a writ of habeas corpus.

The application which Judge Butler denied was filed as the first step of a new drive for Mooney's release from life imprisonment. An appeal will be taken from the Marin county jurist's decision to the higher courts. Eventually it will reach the State Supreme court and possibly the United States Supreme court.

BAKER COMES TO FRONT IN BIG CONTEST

With Register carrier boys in the city and suburban divisions racing down the home stretch in the big annual spring popularity contest for Register carrier boys are shown in the picture below. Left to right is Everett Baggs, George Brandt and Wallace Brandt. The trio of beach carriers is determined to be up in front when the contest closes on April 30 and when $300 in cash prize money is distributed.

Latest development in the big contest, it was announced today by Circulation Manager R. M. Conklin, was when Cyril Baker, of Silver Acres, who has been in first place in the suburban division for some time until displaced, again forged ahead to first place and now has a total of 261,000 votes. Carl Davis, of Orange, who held first place, now is in second place with 270,000 votes. Ben Detwiler is still in the lead in the city division.

Circulation Manager Conklin said today that the contest is exciting more interest not only among the carrier boys, but also among subscribers who are anxious to see their favorite carriers win some of the big prize money, than any contest ever held.

When the contest ends there will be $300 to be distributed among 18 winners in the city division and 18 winners in the suburban division. This prize money is given away in addition to the regular commissions earned by the boys.

The Metropolitan safety film "Once Upon a Time," an animated technicolor cartoon with musical symphony, will be one of the attractions at the Broadway theater for four days, starting Sunday. The picture, it is said, along with being exciting and entertaining, also puts over a story designed to avoid injuries and death from street and automobile accidents.

Two goblins, released by Pandora, cause all the trouble. The Mad Hatter tries to beat the red light. Jack Spratt disregards all signs and tries to beat the train. "Carelessness" and "Disrespect" make Simple Simon a road hog. Cinderella and the Prince, and the Giant, are all there, too, and the giant is expected to prove of interest to both old and young.

Alex Jones, 31, and Irene Scott, 21, both of Riverside were injured on the Anaheim-Olive road Thursday night when Jones went to sleep while driving and the car struck a pole.

Anna H. Speckman, 77, of Havana, Ill., was injured when cars driven by Edwin Speckman of Yorba Linda, and Iva A. Setzar, R. F. D. No. 2, Santa Ana, collided.

Mrs. J. G. Gary, 66, resident at the Bolsa Chica gun club, Charles F. Laverty, 43, and Mrs. Ruth Laverty, 40, received minor injuries in a coast highway collision west of Huntington Beach, as Mrs. Gary turned into the gun club driveway.

George Wallace, president of the Security First National bank of Los Angeles, and R. E. Hardacre, executive vice president of the bank, were visitors in Santa Ana this week. LONG CONTROL IN LOUISIANA STRENGTHENED votes and anti-Long folks cannot even watch them count.

"Spite" bills, directed at the city of New Orleans, also were included. Mayor T. S. Walmsley of New Orleans is one of the few remaining foes of Long left in public office. One bill gives Long's state administration control of public markets in the city. An insult was added, by attaching the act as an amendment to a bill making prostitution a state offense. Another bill postpones collection of city taxes until October 1. This will cripple New Orleans finances, since tax collections had already started there.

Harrod was returned to the county jail, with probability that a felony charge would be placed against him because of a prior conviction, it was reported.

DUST CLOUDS SUBJECT FOR EVANGELISTSTATE FARM LEADER REVEALS AAA LEGISLATION DRAWN BY FARM GROUPS; RAPS CRITICS

Charges that the "brain trust" was responsible for the Agricultural Adjustment Act are wholly untrue and unfounded on fact, R. W. Blackburn, president of the California Farm Bureau Federation told a group of 65 Farm Bureau leaders, newspapermen and packing house executives at a meeting yesterday afternoon in the Green Cat cafe.

Criticism of the AAA, President of the Orange County Farm Bureau, Blackburn said, originates not with the farmers who are benefitting from the program, but with the middlemen who are handlers of goods and not producers, and who are interested more in handling large volumes of farm products for profit rather than seeing that the agriculturists receive prices commensurate with the costs of production.

"The AAA," the speaker declared, "was the product of the best thought of leaders of the three big agricultural organizations in the country. These men were called together and outlined legislation and drafted a bill which finally was embodied in the AAA in the interests of agriculture. The bill was laid before Secretary Wallace and President Roosevelt and was never seen by the 'brain trust' until it was sent to Congress by President Roosevelt as his program."

Presidential Support

Blackburn pointed out that the AAA measure was passed with the cooperation and support of the president. He gave the background of reasons for the drawing up of the bill, showing how the income of the farmer had dwindled in dollars and purchasing power until the farmer was in a distressed condition, in fact, in worse financial shape than any other group.

Describing the operation of the act, the speaker declared that its vindication is in that purchasing power of the farmer actually is returning. He showed that the 12 agricultural products of California operating under AAA agreements brought $54,000,000 more to farmers than in 1932 before the AAA was in effect, and that orange growers in this locality received $12,000,000 more than in 1932. In the nation, he said, the agricultural income increased by two billions of dollars in the same period.

The main purpose of the AAA, he said, is to bring back parity prices to the farmers. Using the period from 1909 to 1914 as a base period, representing 100 per cent for farmers in returns and costs of goods, the base parity price has been brought back to 98 per cent. Things the farmer buys represents 120 per cent, so while parity has not yet been reached, great progress has been made. When back to parity, regulation will cease, he said, in pointing out that this phase of the AAA is unique in that it is the only program embodying that provision.

Youths Sought In Gun Theft Case

Blackburn said that certain amendments are needed to the AAA, but that in no case should the administration have levied against it criticism for the measure, as though it had been "put over on the people." Attempts to change higher prices against the AAA are false, he said in calling attention to the fact that an average shirt which has a pound of cotton in it, the processing tax amounts to but four and a half cents, while other charges made in following out NRA codes raise the price around 50 cents. He termed the AAA the most successful of all recovery measures attempted.

In the afternoon Blackburn met with the ways and means committee of the Orange County Farm Bureau to discuss Farm Bureau problems. J. W. Gill, president of the league, was present. The two boys throw a gun out of a car at Seventeenth and Lincoln streets.

Hill identified the found gun as his own, and the two youths are being sought.

Santa Ana police are investigating the theft of a shotgun from the garage of T. H. Hill at 118 West 20th street, with every indication that arrests will be made to break up a series of petty thefts of recent days, according to reports today.

One report from Hill reported theft of the gun. Another report by C. F. Clark and Frank Harrold of Orange reported seeing two boys throw a gun out of a car at Seventeenth and Lincoln streets.

Hill identified the found gun as his own, and the two youths are being sought.

Automobile thieves, as a rule, operate on the public streets, taking cars which have been left unlocked and unwatched.

But thieves of unusual daring took his car right out of his own garage sometime during Thursday night, it was reported to Sheriff Logan Jackson yesterday by W. C. Mauerhan, rancher of Katella road and Harbor boulevard.

It was a model A Ford V8 coupe, Mauerhan reported, with tan body and red wheels. The thieves also took a set of long handled socket wrenches, the victim said.

Local Briefs

No one was hurt when cars driven by F. R. Scheeter and Trinidad Vega were in collision late yesterday afternoon in the 1300 block on South Main street. The accident happened, it was reported, as Scheeter started to make a left turn.

Dr. J. H. Pullin has returned from a six day motor trip to Boulder dam and Death Valley during which he took a boat cruise on the lake now forming behind the dam. Points visited included Furnace creek, Stovepipe Wells, Ubehebe crater, Scotty's Castle, Golden canyon and 20 Mule Team Borax works. He obtained many new pictures to add to the collection of places he has visited.

EASTER PLAY TO BE GIVEN SUNDAY NIGHTMRS. ORA HEINE RE-ELECTED AS LEAGUE HEAD

Easter services at the First Congregational church will conclude with a one-act play, with prologue and epilogue, directed by Estelle Carl Beeman. The play, Louis Wilson's forceful drama, "Sunrise" is to be given at the evening service, 7:30 o'clock.

The main characters of the play will be acted by John Cowell, Jean Tradewell, James Logan, William Beeman and Bruce Atkinson. The various parts of the prologue and epilogue will be taken by Jerome Walden, Marlan Bruner, Mrs. Russell Brown, Spurgeon Sparks, George Griffith, David Griffith and Mrs. Ramsdale.

Members of Santa Ana League of Women Voters yesterday unanimously returned Mrs. Ora Heine to the presidency for the coming year.

Election of officers was the chief feature of the league's final meeting for the season, held in Birch Park following a noon luncheon to which each member contributed.

Elected to serve with Mrs. Heine were Mrs. M. E. Geeting and Mrs. Carrie Watson, first and second vice presidents; Mrs. J. D. Campbell, recording secretary; Mrs. D. D. Field, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. A. J. Knight, treasurer.

Mrs. Heine introduced the subject of the equal rights amendment, just now occupying the attention of the nation-wide league, and also discussed government news letters, especially with reference to the Nye committee on investigations. Other discussions pertained to state prison measures, especially those in connection with the women's prison at Tehachapi and the league's point that it should be administered under a separate board from that of San Quentin.

Governor Merriam's proposed budget and matters of similar nature were discussed before officers gave annual reports. Mrs. A. Legrasse, chairman of publications, called attention to leaflets dealing with legal measures in which the league is vitally interested; Mrs. D. D. Field told of her committee's work and study in international co-operation to prevent war; Mrs. Ernest C. Wilson reported on her department of government and its operation; Mrs. M. E. Geeting talked on government and education; Mrs. Carrie Watson gave the parliamentarian's report; Mrs. Wilson read Mrs. A. J. Knight's report as treasurer, and Mrs. Campbell read that of Mrs. C. H. Stanley, secretary.

The most comprehensive idea of the league's accomplishments during the past year was gained from Mrs. Heine's report as president. Her faithful service was indicated by the fact that she was present at each of the 24 meetings held; had attended state convention in Oakland, three southern conferences in Los Angeles, four state board meetings and many lecture series and individual lectures on matters pertaining to the league's work and study.

Delegates from the Long Beach "Cooties" organization, fun group of the VFW, were present. Sean Squirrel P. W. Wentz, of Long Beach, W. J. Ritter, commander of one of the Long Beach VFW posts, and John Shepherd, commander of the other Long Beach post.

Announcing drastic reductions in prices on United States tires, Jerry Hall, local United States tire dealer, is conducting an annual spring tire sale at his service station on the southwest corner of Second and Main streets.

Hall announced reductions up to 22 1/2 per cent in discounts, figured from the actual United States

Hall said, and the makes on sale include U. S. Royal, Stalwart and Peerless tires. Special prices also were announced on wheel change-

All reports indicated a growing feeling of interest in the work of the league, its definite recognition by the community, and indications of increasing value to the community during the year ahead.

A list was given of bills which the league is watching with much interest at present. Included were

HOLLYWOOD, April 20.—The lowly bicycle has assumed a place of tremendous importance in the movie industry. On the Paramount lot may be found some 90 bikes, all in daily use. And a corresponding number may be seen at most of the other studios. They are used constantly by prop boys, messengers, and others who have occasion to get around the studios in a hurry—thus saving the bosses several thousands of dollars each week.

Now all I want is to see Herr Ernst Lubitsch pedaling a bike down to Stage 14 to tell King Vidor how to direct a scene.

MAKING ICE ONLY MATTER OF SECONDS

Making ice in 10 seconds is the rule of the day at Joe Wilson's Radio and Refrigerator shop, Third and Broadway.

Wilson has a demonstrator set, consisting of a unit from a Grunow electric refrigerator, a test tube and a can of carbene, the refrigerating element.

To show how safe, simple and effective it is, he pours a little water in the test tube, starts the unit operating, calls your attention to how quietly it runs, sticks his finger in the carbene can and rubs the liquid over his face and in his mouth to show how harmless it is, then connects the can to the test tube by a small vacuum line, and in a sixth of a minute the water in the tube changes to ice.

Colorful Corner Tips . . .

Men, Women, Boys, Girls.

With the paint season now in full swing it is easy to forget to burn all oily rags which you may use for waxing, polishing or wiping stain or paint.

Rags of this kind if allowed to remain lying around on floor or elsewhere will ignite due to spontaneous combustion.

Fire with frequent loss of life is due to errors in not removing old oily rags from paint jobs. If you value your home destroy oily rags at once. Don't place them in clothes closet or spare rooms or cupboards.

Ask your fireman about this danger. Keep wiping rags in metal container.

Every child should be taught this important fact to prevent unnecessary fire loss.

SUNNYSIDE MAUSOLEUM is a Memorial Temple of Enduring Beauty, dedicated for all time to the needs of this community. For ten years this great institution has been building, steadily, through economic conditions ranging from good to bad. It is essentially a part of Long Beach and vicinity, and has supported the civic enterprises and business organizations of this community loyally in every way.

Long Beach, in turn, has every reason to be proud of Sunnyside. Here, in keeping with the tradition of the southland, is a gem of Spanish Renaissance architecture—a poem in marble and stone, adapted to modern day requirements. It is one of the largest memorials in the United States, and truly without a peer in America.

It is genuine throughout. From the tip of its imposing chimes tower to the base of its massive foundations, Sunnyside is a masterpiece of design and craftsmanship. And everywhere pervades the spirit of solace and cheer to displace thoughts of gloom and despondency.

Visitors are welcome at all times. Come and note for yourself the many outstanding features which together make up the sum total of Sunnyside. Measuring to the highest standards of art and culture, and safeguarded for posterity through its perpetual care fund, Sunnyside yet offers facilities at most modest rates. A monument to immortality, it stands sentry-like for all time, the sincere guardian of your trust.

News Behind the News

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

DUST—

The confusion which the New Dealers have stirred up around the new bank bill is just about as good a hand-made dust storm as ever hit this politically dust-ridden capital.

An acknowledged administration spokesman broke into the public prints anonymously with the announcement last week that the vital section of administration bill was dead and buried. A few days later, chairman Fletcher of the Senate banking committee walked out of President Roosevelt's office and said the vital section was still vital and would be passed.

This brought Senator Glass loping in to see Mr. Roosevelt the following day. He emerged with an announcement which apparently took both views. At first newsmen thought they heard him say the president favored his idea of devaluing the measure. They sent out stories to that effect, but later, at the capitol, Glass moderated his assertion. The stories were switched between newspaper editions.

But this moderation was somewhat off-cause when Glass subsequently informed everyone he would handle the bill on the assumption that the president favored devitalization.

PENETRATION—

While this situation is unprecedentedly confusing, even for Washington, no one on the inside has any dust in his mind concerning it.

As they all see it, Senator Glass is an extraordinary senator. He is not interested in patronage. He does not want any of those 4,800,000 relief dollars which now rest in Mr. Roosevelt's pocket. No favor in the power of the administration could possibly convince him that he is wrong in trying to bury the vital section 2 of the bank bill. Hence, he has to be handled in a different way.

If, in confusing Senator Glass, the administration confuses the whole world about the bank bill, that is bad for the world, but only temporarily.

The inner wiseacres may be wrong in these apparently sound deductions, but they are asking no odds in betting that the vital portions of the administration bill will emerge from all this synthetic confusion. Senator Glass to the contrary notwithstanding.

COMMUNICATIONS—

The confusion of Glass did not start recently. Before Mr. Roosevelt went fishing, the five-foot stick of Virginia dynamite was supposed to have consulted the president about trimming the bank bill.

If those who were nearby heard right, Mr. Roosevelt said, in effect: "O.K., get in touch with Steagall." Mr. Steagall is the bank leader in the house, just as Mr. Glass is in the senate. There are lots of people in the world with whom Glass would rather consult, but necessity required it and he did.

The reply he is supposed to have received from Mr. Steagall was that Mr. Steagall would have to get in touch with some "other people."

By this time, Mr. Glass apparently realized he was on a merry-go-round, and he decided to get in touch with himself. Incidentally, Mr. Steagall has not been in touch with the "other people" yet.

LISTS—

From these events, you may rightly deduce that Senator Glass is no longer regarded by the administration as a thorn in its side, but rather as a pain in the neck. The accepted technique in such cases is not to aggravate it, but to use the scientific method of disengagement.

When last seen, flying more or less irately through the swinging doors of the senate chamber, Glass carried a long list of the names of witnesses he intended to call when his subcommittee starts hearings shortly. It would be more than a good guess to say that the list does not contain the names of those who might be called champions of the administration bill.

However, it is understood Chairman Fletcher of the committee, an administration man, has worn out three pencils writing an equally long list of proposed witnesses. These, of course, will offset the Glass list.

The only thing you may be certain of in this situation is that life will never be dull at the capitol as long as Glass and the New Dealers are so subtly at odds.

ADDENDA—

The bank bill provision at issue is the one creating central credit control in the federal reserve system. This is the only provision concerning which there is any dispute, and there is as yet no open dispute about that. All Glass wants to do is to delay action on that section and shove through the other sections of the bill. Of course, all the New Dealers know that, if they do not get this section now, they will never get it. Therefore, the issue is clear, even though the participants are not yet ready to concede it.

NOTES—

The FERA recently received a novel request from a southern factory, which said: "We are about to have a strike. We request that you suspend relief to those on strike. Then the strike will not last long. This will help your relief situation and we will both benefit." The answer, diplomatically expressed, was: "No."

There is one provision of the new bank act which bankers would like to have. This is the one extending the time for bankers to pay up on loans from their own banks. Existing law requires them to pay up by the coming June.

An observer watched Mr. Roosevelt visit and off shrewd questions good-naturedly at a recent press conference, and observed: "Humor is Roosevelt's best shield."

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

LID—

New York calls F. D. R.'s willingness to compromise on the bonus smart politics. It will relieve the embarrassment of a number of senators who feel they simply must support the bonus in some form and still don't want to cross up the White House. Presumably their gratitude will be expressed in more ardent support for other phases of Mr. Roosevelt's program.

Financial circles are chiefly concerned about the effect of a bonus payment in negotiable bonds on the market for federal securities.

There's no doubt that most of the veterans would rush to sell—which would mean more than a billion dollars' worth of bonds that would have to find buyers in a hurry.

The sudden excess of supply over demand might wham the market on the nose—to the detriment of present and future financing.

The only solution Wall Street can see is to put them on a non-transferable basis—like the current offering of baby bonds—salable only to the government itself.

Even in that case the Treasury would probably have to raise an extra billion in cash to meet the demand.

Insiders say that if the President is in earnest about blocking future pension demands he'll have to screw down a mighty airtight lid. They remark that the Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars can be counted on to produce a fancy benefit program in a campaign year.

The agreement which headed off the Akron rubber strike is rated an amazing retreat by the Federation of Labor. The management conceded nothing except a vague willingness to talk things over with representatives of ANY employee group—and flatly refused to quit supporting their company unions financially.

Postponement of elections for collective bargaining until final court decisions have been reached on the National Labor Board's authority to order such elections is a decided triumph for the employers. It enables them to sidestep the charge that they have refused to comply with the labor provisions of the Recovery Act generally—and for many months.

Moreover—they are completely confident that the court decisions will be in their favor.

Informed sources get word that Bill Green and his lieutenants decided to be pacifists for two reasons. One was that the tire makers don't care whether school kept or not. The other was that the Federation unions in the industry were numerically weaker than the Federation cared to have the world know.

Combination of these factors meant a pre-destined flop if a walkout had been ordered. But it's predicted that Green will have to do a lot of explaining to his followers when they catch on to the extent of the retreat.

QUEERED

New Yorkers unfriendly to organized labor are delighted that Green is playing around with David Lasser of the Workers' Alliance of America and the latter's plan to unionize the unemployed. They are confident that the Federation will burn its fingers if the teamwork continues.

They figure that strikes for higher work relief pay—which Lasser avowedly has in mind—would play directly into conservative hands. The boomerang possibilities are enormous.

An attempt to force larger relief wages by such methods would be flouting both President and Congress—the strikers would have Uncle Sam against them. The point would also be well publicized that a higher scale would either mean many fewer jobs to go 'round or a much heavier burden on the taxpayer.

"If the unions don't watch their step they're likely to queer themselves with the public for years to come."

TARGET

A number of New York security dealers have been asked to show the Post Office Department the correspondence they have received from a certain large utility group over a period of years.

The post office makes many such investigations to check up on possible use of the mails to defraud. Usually the subject of inquiry is a small and obviously fly-by-night outfit. It's very rare that a corporation of national importance is the target.

Observers note that the corporation under scrutiny has been one of the most aggressive and open campaigners against New Deal utility policy.

REAL

The Stock Exchange public relations campaign has gone into temporary eclipse. Richard Whitney has called off his press conferences for the remainder of his term—with what his friends say is a distinct feeling of relief. He never relished the job of answering questions. Incoming President Charles Gay is also keeping mum until he takes office. Meantime he is seeking advice as to how newspaper men should be handled.

Brokerage insiders predict that Bank will take immediate and spectacular action to prove his willingness to meet the views of outsiders—especially the Securities Commission—on Stock Exchange reform. His main concern will be to convince the public that the Exchange's new deal is the real stuff.

cotton for German goods. One reason it was called off was because Brazil protested—and Secretary Hull didn't wish to jeopardize his pending trade treaty with that country.

More recently the Export-Import Bank made a credit arrangement which allowed the Pullman Company to underbid German competition for a sale to Brazil. Everything was set for a profitable piece of business. Then the Germans came back with a special offer and landed the order. The secret of success was that the Germans will accept payment in Brazilian cotton—largely a Japanese enterprise.

SAFETY ORDINANCE ADOPTED BY SAN CLEMENTE COUNCIL; RECALL MOVEMENT DISCUSSED

SAN CLEMENTE, April 20.—At what continually threatened to be a stormy session, the members of the city council last night passed two ordinances and listened to the latest developments in a recall movement against Mayor A. T. Smith.

William C. Meish, one of the leaders in the recall fight, spoke at length, stating that he would withdraw his name from the petition if harmony could be restored in the council. According to Meish, the best means to this end would be the resignation of Councilman David G. Kinney, and the election in his place of some other representative citizen. Meish said that to his knowledge Kinney was intending to resign, as he plans to leave the city for some time.

Major Smith intimated that he knew Kinney had no intention of resigning. A statement from Meish to the effect that withdrawing of the recall petition would be to the best interests of the city was greeted by loud applause from the lobby. No action was taken in the matter.

An amendment to the traffic ordinance prohibiting roller skates, scooters and velocipedes on the streets except in safety zones was passed unanimously. The measure is designed to protect children of the city from drunken drivers.

An ordinance calling for the creation of a city pound, with the chief of police as poundmaster, was passed. All dogs must be licensed, and when appearing on the beach or in public parks must be on a leash. Riding of horses on the beach and in public parks will be prohibited.

It was voted to have all of the street lights turned on along El Camino Real beginning May 25.

Newport Officers Prepare To 'Crack Down' On Revelers

NEWPORt BEACH, April 20.—Six revelers were caught in the toils of Newport Beach police last night, to swell the number of arrests for drunkenness during Easter vacation to more than 40. The customary calls complaining of noisy parties and late merrymakers on the streets kept police cars busy until dawn this morning.

Newport police will "crack down" on law violators tonight, it was said today, in an effort to put a stop to the rowdyism which has marked the annual beach observance of Easter week. Special patrols will be on duty during the entire night, members of the police committee of the city council stated, in an effort to keep the crowds expected to throng to the city under control.

Arrested last night and held for trial today on charges of intoxication were C. C. Hundon, 36, of Orange; Johnston B. Wiles, 18, of Altadena; Edward Dixson, 21, of Los Angeles; Robert Edward McChesney, 22, of Los Angeles; Cliff W. Mackay, 25, of Pasadena, and a 17-year-old Covina boy.

BOOK REVIEWS

BY MARY BURKE KING

The Curtain Falls by Joseph Verne Reed, published by Harcourt, Brace and Company.

On page five of his book Mr. Reed says that as a child and youth he "swallowed" in the theater. For him, he says, there was no such thing as a bad play. It is a comforting statement to those who share his enthusiasm for the theater. It is a fact that such people have deplored and been ashamed of their uncritical enthusiasm for plays. It is one of those things one doesn't talk about because one is ashamed of one's lack of discrimination, particularly when associating with people connected with the theater. Now that Mr. Reed has come out with his book they can have the courage of their convictions. They have a right to believe that they are the truest lovers of the theater. This attitude of lovers does not come from the fact that they have no judgment but simply that they tenderly gloss over the faults and unpleasantness of a play and actually forget its shortcomings as quickly as possible, remembering only the pleasant and the fine and the beautiful. It is a romantic attitude. But it is the attitude which makes dear to the heart possessing it, this book "The Curtain Falls." No others can enjoy it quite so much as one who has shared Mr. Reed's enthusiasm for the theater.

He wanted to become a part of the theater. He early discovered that he could not act. He haunted the producers and managers for some sort of a job, anything which would get him into the theater, make him a part of it. Finally the only way seemed to be to become a producer. He was fortunate in having available enough money to give him quite a lot of experience in the theater.

He sets before us the high points of that experience. It is one of the almost amusing books. We are fortunate that we can have such fun at Mr. Reed's expense. He is generous. In spite of all his nervous exhaustion, his terrific expense, his disillusionment he remained a lover of the theater and he writes without rancor or bitterness. He is, on the contrary, still tender in his regard for the theater. This is the conclusion of his experience: I don't want to know how the curtain goes up and who shifts the scenery and how this or that stage effect is achieved, and whether this or that member of the cast is ill. I don't want to know anything about stage personalities or technicalities or economics. I don't belong backstage. I belong out front, where I'll be again as I used to be—as I was cut out to be—the most sympathetic member of the audience.

I want to enjoy the play. I want to become fascinated by it, carried away by it. I want the play to mean so much to me that imperceptibly I shall become so identified with it that forever after I shall be able to re-live each cadence of its voice and to dream each rhythm of its movement.

"What I want of the theater is to be in the audience when the play reaches its full stride, when the acting and scenery and the play itself and the lighting and the direction all concur in one supreme moment of living climax. I want to be there, living it, loving it, as the Curtain Falls."

Probably the most delightful passages of the book are those describing the author's experience with temperamental actresses. The debut of Katherine Hepburn is good stage gossip. The jealousy of a certain well-known and charming actress served to give Katherine Hepburn her opportunity, because it was judged that Katherine was a safe foil for the beautiful actress.

"The Curtain Falls" is a rare and most delightful book.

"RECKLESS" TO BAXTER, LOY
OPEN SUNDAY TOGETHER IN
AT BROADWAY FILM AT STATE

Heralded as one of the finest and most entertaining films of the year, "Reckless," featuring Jean Harlow, William Powell and Franchot Tone, will open an engagement of four days at the Broadway theater tomorrow.

Expertly produced and directed, the picture travels fast through all of the sequences. Jean Harlow is an actress who is woofed and won by Franchot Tone, yachting and hard-drinking socialite.

William Powell, a sports promoter in love with Miss Harlow. When Tone takes his bride home, parental objection to the actress causes trouble. Further complications are the result when Rosalind Russell, Tone's former sweetheart, marries another. Tone realizes that he still loves Miss Russell, makes a fool of himself at her wedding and ends by committing suicide.

Miss Harlow gets bad breaks but is helped along by Powell, who borrows enough money to stage a show when all other producers turn her down. On the opening night, Tone's social friends attend the theater, and try to make an example of her by hissing at her efforts. From the stage she berates them and asks them to act decently. She finishes her song among cheers while Powell proposes from the wings.

Among the popular players in the film are Nat Pendleton, May Robson, Allan Jones, Henry Stepmore, Robert Light and Louise Henry.

Short subjects include the April issue of the popular March of Time series, which tells the news behind the news. Other short subjects include a color cartoon, "Once in a Lifetime," "Dumbell Letters," a novelty, and Register World News events.

STIRRING FILM
OF REVOLUTION
HERE APRIL 27

A splendid romantic drama of the stirring days of the French revolution, "Scarlet Pimpernel," Alexander Korda's screen version of the famous novel, will open at the West Coast theater next Saturday, April 27, with a second feature, "Mary Jane's Pa," fast-paced musical comedy, play for the last times at the Broadway theater tonight.

Lavishly produced, "Scarlet Pimpernel" features Leslie Howard and Merle Oberon in vibrant and colorful roles. Howard is Sir Percy Blakeney, the gallant English gentleman who risked life, love and self-respect to direct the dangerous secret work of the League of the Scarlet Pimpernel, a little band of Regency bloods pledged to rescue French aristocrats from the hungry guillotine. Miss Oberon plays the beautiful French wife who was estranged by the unmanly masquerade he assumed to conceal his reckless exploits.

A distinguished supporting cast, headed by Nigel Bruce, Raymond Massey, Joan Gardner, Anthony Bushell, Bramwell Fletcher and Walter Rilla are in the film.

Rolling humor, pathos, fast and intense dramatic action and romance are contained in "Mary Jane's Pa," featuring Aline MacMahon and Guy Kibbee. Kibbee plays the part of a tramp printer, born with wanderlust in his heart. A small town publisher, he leaves what he thinks is competence to his wife and two small children, and disappears. When he turns up later, he finds a situation which brings about many humorous and dramatic scenes.

Odd Garage Is Used For Comedy Gag

A "cockroach garage" was the odd establishment maintained by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's location company which filmed Wallace Beery's latest starring picture, "West Point of the Air," which opens at the Broadway on Sunday April 28.

Twenty cockroaches, gathered together by the property man for a comedy gag in the picture, were allowed a daily period of exercise in a small enclosure which surrounded their tin shelter. But you couldn't get Maureen O'Sullivan, feminine members of the cast, to go near them.

While there is considerable comedy in "West Point of the Air," the shrill scream of zooming airplanes is the stirring background of what is heralded as the most startling aviation spectacle of the year. The picture is a drama of the United States Air Corps.

GOOD FRIDAY SERVICE HELD LAST EVENING

Services in observance of Good Friday were conducted last evening by the Rev. William Schmoek in Trinity Lutheran church.

In addition to the sermon there was special music by the children's chorus, singing, "Jesus, Lamb of Calvary." In his sermon, the minister said, in part:

"It is finished." This exclamation of Christ does not merely denote the end of His earthly existence, or of His suffering, but it is His declaration that His work, the work of redemption, is now finished.

"This work had been determined in the eternal counsel of God, it had been foretold in many prophecies and types of the Old Testament, and Jesus had gladly and willingly agreed to perform it for the salvation of man.

"The death of Christ has done what no other death could do: it has saved the sinful world, atoned for sin, satisfied the demands of God's holy law, paid our debt, taken away the curse, endured the punishment, and reconciled God with the world. Christ's death is the ransom for the sinner. The Lion from the tribe of Judah has conquered."

Residents of Santa Ana appear determined that one or more of the twenty-five new automobiles, offered by the Hudson Motor Car Company in a nation-wide letter contest, will be added to the local registration records, if the number of local contestants can be taken as a criterion, according to P. and L. Motors, Hudson and Terraplane dealer here.

The contest is unique, states Mr. Lillard, in that all of the prize cars will be given at one time, rather than in a series of weekly or bi-weekly awards. Further, it is said to be the largest number of automobiles ever offered in a single contest. These factors appear to be attracting an unusual number of people from this vicinity to join in the nation-wide competition. The contest ends April 27, and Mr. Lillard expects to be advised of the names of the winners about May 13.

Residents of the truth of these stories lie deeper in the reviving faith of the disciples when they had lost all heart and hope.

Recently I read a lecture on immortality, by a great scholar in one of our foremost universities, in which he stated quite frankly that whether there was a future life or not was to him personally quite an indifferent matter. He was deeply interested only in discovering what men believed concerning immortality, and in studying the psychological effect of that belief upon their lives and upon masses of people religiously and racially.

Some time ago, also, I received a letter from one whom life had buffeted very severely. Loss and suffering had made the outlook on life so dark and so full of terror that for this soul in distress the thought that there might be an ending to it all was in itself a relief.

Passionately the writer of this letter expressed the hope that there was no such thing as life beyond death.

Few people will be able to take either of these attitudes, even assuming that it were desirable. Deep down in human life there is this feeling for immortality, this demand of man for some hope and some evidence that the grave is not the end-all. Deeper and higher still in the reasoned thought of man is a similar demand.

If one doubted the reality of immortality, he might find great hope in this, if there were nothing else.

But there is a further witness to faith in immortality in the words of Jesus himself and in the experience that Christians firmly believe they have found of Christ in their own hearts. To Jesus himself this indwelling presence of the Father was so real that He looked forward to the future with the clearest of faith that took the eternal life for granted.

"If it were not so," He said, to his disciples, "I would have told you."

Paul was speaking as a clear-minded realist when he said, "If in this life only we have hope in Christ Jesus, we are of all men most miserable."

Deeply imbedded in the Christian facts and in the Christian message is a clear declaration concerning the eternal nature of the good life. Nothing is so certain in the Christian's faith as that goodness cannot be destroyed. The essential place of this faith in immortality in the Christian religion and the witness to it are emphasized in many ways.

First, in the story of the resurrection of Jesus, upon which a part of our lesson is based. The evidence from the resurrection of Jesus is not merely that of ancient records.

Fortunately the resurrection stories are sufficiently different to destroy all suggestion that they were invented by the disciples or that any collusion existed in claiming that Jesus had risen. The evi-

Come to Church

AGAIN WE LEARN THAT FAITH IS LIFE ITSELF . . .

"And He was risen"—how magnificently the organ peals out the melody of those words! "And He was risen"—what fervor that brief phase instills in the souls of all who hear it! Who can help but believe . . . who can fail to want to believe . . . when one knows the glory that was His! Let us find our true faith in our Church, where we may worship all that means Love, and Peace, and Fellowship of man. And thus in all our hearts will surge the joyousness of believing when we, too, hear, on Easter Sunday—"And He was risen."

When did you last go to church? Last Sunday? Then you are near to Him on this high-holiday. When did you last go to church? Too far back to remember? Never fear—He is ever in your heart.

CLEANERS REPORT
HEAVY BUSINESS

Newly-Married Couple

In This City

Dry cleaning establishments of Santa Ana set a new record for activity this week.

It was a welcome rush of business, and workers in some cases were forced to work extra hours. Everybody wanted their clothes cleaned for Easter, and this fact in itself produced an extra volume of business.

It is springtime, and springtime cleaning operations brought forth clothes and drapes.

And then there came some beautiful, warm days which reminded citizens that this is the time to get out summer clothes and have them cleaned ready for use.

All in all, the cleaning rush was considerably the largest volume for similar period on record.

The bridge wore a rose and grey outfit with a corsage bouquet of gardenias. The bridegroom's brother, Earle Rhodes of Long Beach, and Mrs. Inwood were present for the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes expect to take their honeymoon trip later in the year. At present, they are with Mrs. Rhodes' parents on South Parton street, expecting to establish their own Southland home in the near future.

TEACHING THE FACTS

Eighteen university professors in the University of California at Berkeley have protested against a certain clause in the anti-Communist bill now before the legislature. Those who are back of this bill objected to President Sproul and desired to have these 18 professors rebuked.

In reply, Dr. Sproul said, in part, in respect to these men: "I am informed that their protest was against Section 30-B, on Page 2 of the printed bill, which they believed would make felons of the regents for possessing certain literature in the university library and of members of the faculty for transporting such literature to their classrooms and commenting upon it, even to show its fallacy."

Men and women who are so taught concerning the facts, relating to the Communistic program or any other violent program, so that they may be able to see the futility of attempting to accomplish any reform in that manner, are the ones who are really prepared to carry on for democracy. They can meet the sophistry of that group, answer them and clarify the minds of others.

Apropos of this situation, the board of education in Cleveland, Ohio, listened this week to a report by a special committee recommending that teachers be supported by the board "in their freedom to present facts as scholars find them, and that tenure should not be threatened if special groups should protest."

Teachers in our public schools have often been restricted in teaching the real facts of history and government because some group in the community might be offended. These groups often want significant details omitted in order that a more favorable picture than that warranted by the facts might justify.

Those of us who were taught American history a generation ago were given a picture of events which we have had to unlearn in the light of further reading or study. History was taught as propaganda.

The dark side of the picture was always concealed. We were always right, and our enemies were always wrong.

We were always victorious, and our enemies were always beaten. Our statesmen and our generals were always supermen, much after the manner of the Napoleon of John Stevens Cabot Abbott, who was pictured by this writer, as one has said, as an unselfish and high-minded military leader whose whole aim appeared to be to establish the American system of Sunday schools in Europe.

That attitude was created too often by the partisan character of the teaching in our elementary schools. It gave a distorted picture of our national history and our national life.

It refused to face the bitter truth for the sweeter error. It secluded us in a false paradise. And it failed to give a perspective of life necessary to the understanding of every race and of every great historic and scientific movement and discovery.

If the recommendations of this committee are accepted by the Cleveland board of education, it will, we trust, be the beginning of a movement to develop a broader and a more tolerant citizenship, and thus obviate many of the disputes and conflicts which vex American life today.

There is nothing to be gained, and very much to be lost, by concealing or distorting the real facts of science and history. When the German historian, von Ranke, stated that for the first time in the world's life he was going to teach history as it actually took place, he started something. Unfortunately, there are all too many in this country and in all countries who have never caught up with him.

CREDIT AND RESPONSIBILITY WHERE THEY BELONG

It would have been well if all the citizens of Orange county could have heard R. W. Blackburn, president of the California Farm Bureau Federation, in his luncheon address to a group of the Farm Bureau men and friends.

He addressed himself to the Agricultural Adjustment act, and certainly enlightened all of his hearers as to how that measure was initiated, who was behind it, and what it was accomplishing.

To begin with, he said the "Brain Trust" had nothing to do with it and never saw it until after it was laid on the President's desk. In the second place, he said that it was a product of the best thought of the leaders of the three big agricultural organizations in the country.

He said these men had been called together and had outlined legislation which was finally embodied in the Agricultural Adjustment act, in the interest of the agriculturists; that they were practically unanimous in their agreement, and that the measure, as outlined, passed with the co-operation and hearty support of the President.

Mr. Blackburn gave the background of the reasons for this activity. He showed how the income of the farmer had shrunken in dollars and in purchasing power, and that he was in a terrible condition in the country, much worse than any other group.

He then described the operations of the act in as great detail as he had time, declaring its vindication in the fact that the purchasing power of the farmer was returning; that he had gone from 40 per cent up to 98 per cent of the base level of the time which they used as their base.

However, he showed that even at that, the cost to the farmer had risen some 20 per cent, so it is now 98 to 120, whereas it had stood in the ratio of 40 to 100.

He called attention to the fact that under this act, California's agriculturists had received 50 million dollars more money than the year before, and the orange producers in this locality some 12 million more.

He said that some amendments were needed; some changes would have to be effected; that all the increase of prices was not due to the measure, but that in no case should the administration have leveled against it criticism for this measure, as though the President had originated it and "put it over" on the people, for he had not done this.

It was the product of the brain of the farm leaders, on the part of the farm leaders, and Mr. Blackburn maintained it had wonderfully accomplished much of its purpose and would be modified in those places where experience demonstrated it needed modification.

THE UNITED STATES AND THE TROUBLES OF EUROPE

Ever since the war clouds have been hovering over Europe, the people of this country, and the leaders in the administration in Washington, have been thinking about the impossible involvement of this country in the troubles of Europe.

The recollection is still vivid in the minds of those who lived during the distraught years of 1914 to 1918, and how we were drawn into a war which only remotely concerned us, and from which we inherited nothing but a huge debt, a dislocated economic condition, and a variety of other complications.

There is a growing determination in the country among the people that we shall not be sucked into the quarrels of European countries to the extent of being drawn into another war should such a war come again. After all, the question of European territorial boundaries, of expatriated nationals by victorious treaty makers, and the jealousies and rivalries of contiguous nations, does not immediately concern us.

We were dragged into the World war because we insisted that our shipping should not be molested by belligerent nations and that our nationals entering the war zones should be secured in their lives and their property, whether travelling on business or for pleasure.

It seems absurd to many that a few people insisting upon their rights to trade as they please for profit or to travel where they please for pleasure should expect all the rest of the people of the country to sacrifice their sons and their resources to guarantee these rights.

What justification can be put forth for a few individuals insisting upon their rights at the expense of the welfare and the lives of millions of their fellow citizens?

It is now proposed by those high in the administration that those who take such risks during a war shall do so at their own charges. Such people are to be warned of the dangers existing within war areas, and advised to keep out. The government will not be responsible for anything that may happen to them.

We believe that the people of the country at large will stand by such a proposition. This insistence upon the rights of neutrals in trading within war zones is a fiction that has been exploded.

If anyone gets into a district in which fighting is going on, where bricks are flying and guns are being shot off, either out of curiosity or to do business as usual, he ought to carry his own risk, and not expect his neighbors, far and near, to come to his rescue or to make good his losses and his injuries.

The measures now being drawn up by our state department will receive the hearty approval of every one who is not moved by selfish interests.

Gate Receipts Get "The Gate"

Christian Science Monitor

American college sport has gained a stride in its perennial footrace with the athletic budget. Harvard University's plan to take the profit motive out of intercollegiate competition by establishing an endowment fund to support its athletic program is the most constructive proposal that has appeared along this line since the Carnegie Foundation's bombshell against commercialized football burst on the campus nearly a decade ago.

Harvard's decision, in effect, acknowledges the desirability of divorcing the athletic system from what President Conant regards as a "vicious connection" with football gate receipts. An endowment fund should stabilize the entire athletic program and insure it against curtailment resulting from an occasional decline in football gate receipts. Income from football games long has been the chief means of defraying the cost of other intercollegiate and intramural athletics within American schools. Viewed in its proper perspective, football is a splendid sport. It has won a tremendous public following. For this very reason football has been widely exploited to sustain demands for supporting the nonpaying forms of undergraduate competition.

In recent years the quest for gate receipts has cast a dubious shadow over the playing fields of American colleges. Sportsmanship and good fun have suffered wherever monetary profit, even indirectly, has asserted its demand for winning football. Harvard's plan to lift the whole athletic burden from football's shoulders is a practical step toward giving the game back to the boys.

On Bossing Bears

San Francisco Chronicle

Maria Rasputin, daughter of Russia's "mad monk" and who has taken up the career of a wild animal trainer, has been severely clawed by a bear she was putting through its act in Peru. India.

There is an interesting analogy in this, for the bear is the popular symbol for Russia. And Rasputin, trying to put the Russian bear through its paces, got clawed most severely.

In justice to Miss Rasputin, it should be remembered that she never claimed to have any such supernatural powers as her father professed. But if he had them, and they were hereditary, they obviously did not include permanent mastery over bears.

U. S.-Mexico Highway

Oakland Tribune

A highway which is itself a long and important one, and yet but one link in the great project which one day will furnish a smooth road from Alaska to South America, is to open in May when the last work is finished on that stretch which connects Laredo, Texas, with Mexico, D. F.

This is to be a road to stimulate interest and support for the larger venture as well as one to afford needed service and rare scenic splendors to its immediate area. It is to run for 760 miles through mountains and jungles, picturesque cities and orange groves, and one which will soon be inviting the attention of thousands of tourists.

TEACHERS MUST PLAY THE GAME

The teaching profession is under fire today. findings regardless of what these interests and vested ideas of the persons, parties and powers that may be struggling for control of the social order.

Academic freedom is not freedom to propagandize for the programs of this and that partisan compound of passion, prejudice and preconception.

The teacher turned propagandist is not only a poor exemplar of the scientific spirit but is a constant provoker of attacks on academic freedom.

In the midst of the intense partisanship of our time, it is difficult enough to maintain freedom for objective scholarship, without the teacher asking the educational administrator to tackle the impossible job of maintaining freedom for partisan propaganda through the schools.

Teachers must play the game. Copyright, 1935, McClure News' Sy.

A sick child cannot learn. He brain centers that are dull, lack of coordination, malnutrition, lack of visual memory, a poor sound memory, lack of power in the association centers of the brain, these and countless other obscure causes may be affecting the child. The trained specialist is the one to discover and correct them as far as possible. But there is no special.

My point is that there ought to be. Wherever a school is serving a community the teacher should have the help of a physician, a child specialist, and a nurse. The teacher's function is to instruct the children in the course of study to train them to cooperate with each other and with all sorts of people, to establish character traits that will enable the children to live healthy self-sustaining lives. She cannot do her work unless the pupils are in condition to be taught. As things are many teachers are expected to take entire responsibility for the mental and physical health of the children in their care, educate and train them regardless of the conditions, with no help from anybody. This is the reason hosts of children are left back every year. School health is basis to school success and the teacher is powerless unless school health is close to perfect.
